KeyMacro is a useful tool for controlling macros and special functions in MS-Dynamics CRM. Its functionality is similar to the sequence-control from Microsoft Excel. Some of the advantages that KeyMacro offers over Excel macros are: - no need to update the source code manually - no compatibility problems with Microsoft Office - ability to perform various operations by using user-defined keystrokes - the new keystrokes can be used in the client app and in the server app - a powerful logging mechanism The program integrates with Microsoft Dynamics CRM. It allows you to create macros that perform some actions on the client's side or the CRM server side in the CRM or Microsoft Excel. You can also add keystrokes to the context menus. This tool is more like a keyboard with special keys that perform specific functions. You can enter any kind of data in the MS-Dynamics CRM or Microsoft Excel. The macros and special keystrokes are created and controlled by the client. You can add new macros and keystrokes in the editor. You can also edit existing macros and keystrokes in the source code. For a long time, the macros and keystrokes are saved in the database. When you install the software, you can start a test macro or keystroke.

Q: Swift: Collection view layout with 3 label, 2 image and 1 button I have a collection view with custom cells, and I need to align in each cell 3 label, 2 image and 1 button in the center. I'm using a standard UICollectionViewFlowLayout and I found this documentation that explain how to do it. But it doesn't support my need. In particular, I can't add 3 labels, 2 image and 1 button. When I use this code I get: 2016-11-16 18:41:45.065 App[30577:213123] -[__NSArrayM insertObject:atIndex:]: Argument list too long When I use this code I get: 2016-11-16 18:51:18.139 App[30669:213123] -[__NSArrayM insertObject:atIndex:]: argument count mismatch How can I solve this problem? I appreciate every help. My Code: class CustomCollectionViewFlowLayout: UICollectionViewFlowLayout { var itemsSource: [Any] = [] override init() { super.init() let layoutAttributes = UICollectionViewFlowLayoutAttributes(forCellWithIdentifier: "cellIdentifier") for (index, element) in itemsSource.enumerated() { let item = element as!
