Very Freakin' Queer. GarethFoss The game allows up to four (human or computer) players. Many people are looking for an unblocked version of Among Us to play. .It's been just over a week since Let's Make a Deal ended its four-season run, but rumors of the show's revival continue to circulate. Multiple TV news outlets report that NBC intends to bring the show back on Sept. 8. BuzzFeed has the scoop on the revival, which involves original host Jeff Probst partnering with "The Voice" host Carson Daly to bring back "Lets Make a Deal" in a "demutualized, renovation-centric format" as part of a larger revamp that would include the show "changing the prize to US$100,000," shifting the game format to a "30 minute episode" format, and "focusing more on short-form clips" to "tease out deals." NBC has not yet confirmed these reports. Advertisement According to BuzzFeed, the revival was discussed as a possibility last summer at NBC's "upfront presentation" in May. "Lets Make a Deal" was originally hosted by Bill Rancic, and later hosted by Tony Danza and then Jeff Probst. As a whole, the revamp appears to be aimed at adding more game shows, "The Voice," to NBC's programming. As far as "Lets Make a Deal" is concerned, it may just have more bang for the buck: Danza and Probst would have a former "Deal" contestant on their show, and also wouldn't need to call potential contestants and invite them to relocate to Hollywood. It could also give the show more time to develop individual relationships with contestants. (One of the original show's quirks was that the contestants were given the chance to change occupations to boost their bankrolls.) The revival marks the second time "Lets Make a Deal" has returned to NBC's lineup. On May 3, it was announced that the show had been added to NBC's lineup for the fall season. It will air at 10:00 p.m. on Sunday nights.
